RECEPTION TO DR. AND MRS. BARRETT

The reception tendered Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Barrett Tuesday evening last by the Ladies Mite Society was an occasion that will long be remembered by the large assemblage present. At an early hour the parsonage was filled to overflowing—not only by members of Bethesda M. E. Church, but all of our churches were well represented, and the evening was spent in a very pleasing manner. The new pastor and his affable wife were greeted by our people in a way that will doubtless assist them in their work for the Master during this conference year, being assured by the presence of so large a gathering that all possible assistance would be given them, also that the new minister had won the admiration of his congregation during his short time with us. Brief remarks were made by the following gentlemen: G. E. Hukill, president of the Board of Trustees, welcomed Dr. Barrett on behalf of the Trustees; Martin B. Burris, Esq., on behalf of the Official Board and incidentally on behalf of the Ladies Mite Society; Enoch C. Allen, president, on behalf of the Epworth League; Alfred G. Cox, Superintendent, on behalf of the Sunday School; Dr. F. H. Moore, pastor of the Forest Presbyterian Church, on behalf of his church and the community; and Rev. W. J. Wilkie, rector of St. Anne's Protestant Episcopal Church, on behalf of his church. At the conclusion of the evening's programme, refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, cake, etc., which was most enjoyed by all, after which the guests departed, wishing Dr. and Mrs. Barrett many happy returns of the delightful occasion.

KILLED AT BARLOW'S BRIDGE.

TOWNSEND, DEL., APRIL 12, 1901.

Charles Sewell who for the last two months was employed as a laborer on the gravel train was struck and instantly killed while he was standing near the north end of Barlow's bridge near here about 6 o'clock, on Wednesday evening. The passenger train known as No. 96, and arriving at Townsend at 5.57 o'clock, having struck him while going at a great speed, knocking him down to the bottom of the bank on the north end of the culvert. Several men were on the bridge at the time, but they managed to get out of the way of the train. Fellow-laborers hastened to where the body of the unfortunate man had been hurled it having been thrown to a point that was close to a large pile of brush and timber, but on reaching the body of Sewell he was dead, death having come instantly according to the opinion of all the on-lookers at this very sad affair. The body was placed aboard the train and brought to Townsend, and put in the warehouse until the arrival of the eight o'clock train, when the remains were sent to Clayton, his late home. The coroner was immediately notified and he investigated the case on Thursday at Clayton, the decision of the jury of the coroner being that Sewell came to his death by being struck by a train of cars on the Delaware Railroad.

Sewell was about 32 years of age and leaves a wife and six children. He bore the name of a good, industrious man, and a most kind husband and father, although a resident of Clayton, much sympathy has been expressed at this place for the stricken widow and her children, all of whom are yet small.

EASTER IN OUR CHURCHES

While the weather was not that could be desired for Easter, the day was nevertheless an interesting one in all our churches, made so from the great preparations that had been in progress for several weeks by the congregations of our various churches. The only disappointment was probably that of the ladies, who were unable to wear their new clothing and Easter hats. That the season is a prosperous one was evident by the fact that the Easter display of flowers was much exceeded in outtown, and the artistic manner in which they were arranged was much complimented by all.

BETHESDA CHURCH

Last Sunday was a great day for Bethesda Methodist Episcopal Church and Sunday School. It being Easter day, the Church was beautifully and tastefully decorated by a committee of ladies, consisting of Miss Mary J. Wilson, Mrs. Wallace C. Eliason, and Mrs. Henry C. DeValinger, assisted by Geo. F. Wilson. The church presented such a scene of beauty, as to excite the wonder and admiration of all beholders. The congregations both morning and evening were unusually large, which together with the beautiful display of flowers gave inspiration to the new pastor, Rev. Dr. Barrett. Dr. Barrett was at his best and his discourse was listened to with rapt attention and was delight many pronouncing the morning sermon the best Easter sermon they had ever listened to. And the music, what shall we say of that. It deserves more than a passing notice, it was simply grand and would have done credit to any city choir. But to whom shall we give credit for the rendition of this soul inspiring, Easter music. To name any particular one would be to taste, as each was so preme in his or her part, and all were necessary to bring out the full force and charm of this delightful Easter music. We note the membership of Bethesda's choir, as now constituted: Organist, Miss Lena Pleasanton; Soprano, Miss Katharine Vansant; Miss Mary J. Wilson, Mrs. Leona Green; Tenor, Mr. Samuel Price; Alto, Miss Charlotte Jones; Basses, Messrs. Albert L. Massey, William A. Hukill, Jr., Dr. William E. Barnard.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Bethesda Sunday School for the first time in its history, held special services to commemorate the glad Easter day. The decorations were chaste but not elaborate. A large white cross stood in front of the Superintendent's desk, elevated so as to be seen by all, bearing the inscription, "He is Risen." This cross was flanked with Easter Lilies and other flowers, presenting a very pleasing effect. The program was the finest ever presented by the school on any occasion—"The First Easter Story," by Tuller-Meridith Co., of New York. The attendance of the school was the largest for many years past, numbering 200, beside a number of visitors. The music was not only of a high order throughout, but was rendered by the school in such a manner as to win the commendation of all listeners. The school was fully supported by the Sunday School orchestra and choir.

Dr. Barrett addressed the school and his remarks were listened to by all with most attentive ears. Easter day was significant in the history of Bethesda Sunday School, it marked the throwing off of the remnants of the dead past, and the coming into a new and more beautiful life.

At St. Anne's Church the decorations were especially attractive and the first Easter of the twentieth century was appropriately observed in commemoration of that wonderful morning in the world's history when Christ rose from the dead. Rev. J. W. Wilkie preached two very impressive sermons, and the music was a pleasing feature of the days programme.

At Forest Presbyterian Church, Dr. F. H. Moore preached two stirring sermons to large congregations, and the choir rendered many pretty Easter anthems appropriate to the occasion. The Church presented a handsome appearance being nicely decorated with a profusion of flowers.

MALONEY-SCOTT

The wedding of Mr. Levi L. Maloney, to Miss Nina Scott at Townsend, Wednesday evening was one of the largest attended weddings that ever occurred in that progressive little town, and the seating capacity of Emanuel M. E. Church only accommodated one half the large number of relatives and friends of the popular young couple who wished to gain admission to the church edifice. The church had been handsomely decorated by the lady friends of the bride for the occasion. The Rev. Alfred T. Scott, cousin of the bride, assisted by the pastor of the Church, the Rev. George P. Jones conducted the ceremony.

Mrs. Winfield Lattomms, presided at the organ, and rendered "Thine Own and Hearts and Flowers," while the guests were being ushered in. The ushers were: Messrs. John Townsend and William Eliason, of Philadelphia; Theodore Ferguson, of near Townsend, and William C. Money, of Townsend. The bridesmaids, four in number, were: Miss Elizabeth Diech, gownned in white organdie over blue silk; Miss Estelle Van Dyke, cousin of the bride, in turquoise blue silk muslin; Miss Maud Smith, also a cousin of the bride, in lemon organdie; and Miss Lola E. Finley, in lemon organdie, carrying violets and red roses respectively. The maid of honor was Miss Ethelwyn Maloney, sister of the groom, gownned in white organdie over light blue silk, carrying daisies. Little Miss Mary Jester, of Delaware City, was flower girl dressed in white silk, carrying pink carnations. Master W. Hart Scott, brother of the bride, was ring bearer, dressed in black suit with white vest. The best man to the groom was M. Levi W. Lattomms, uncle to the groom. To the beautiful strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bridal party entered the main aisle of the church. Then came the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, gownned in white point d'esprit on train, with veil, and carried bride roses. The groom and his best man met the bridal party at the chancel, where the pretty ring ceremony was used. After the ceremony, as the bridal party left the church, Mendelssohn's in prescriptive march was played. The reception at the home of the bride's parents was a very pleasant feature of the event. A luncheon, by Caterer M. Stevenson, of Smyrna, was nicely served. The young couple started on their short southern wedding tour on the 3.22 morning Norfolk express, which made a stop at Townsend for them.
